Plan a 5-day relaxing coastal trip for 2 people from Denver to San Diego from January 10 to January 14, 2025. We'd like to explore scenic beaches, enjoy seafood dining, and attend any local events or festivals. Keep it relaxing — we're not into packed schedules. Our budget is $3,000

Mitigation Strategies

M1: Compress two days of the itinerary and preserve as many key experiences as possible before the new departure
M2: Replace with thematically similar outdoor nature-based activities
M3: Prioritize low-cost substitutions (e.g., public attractions, travel cost etc.)

Generated Initial Plan

Day 1

Current City: from Denver to San Diego
Transportation: Flight Number: DL3461, from Denver (DEN) to San Diego (SAN)
Departure Time: 08:20, Arrival Time: 09:55
Breakfast: ….
Lunch: …
POI: Hotel Check-in: Hotel Indigo Gaslamp Quarter, 1:00 PM
Rest + walk along Embarcadero Marina Park (3:30–4:30 PM) …

Day 2

Breakfast: Better Buzz, 08:30–09:15
Morning POI: La Jolla Shores Beach, 10:00–12:00
Lunch: Duke's La Jolla, 12:15–13:30
Afternoon: La Jolla Cove & shops, 14:00–16:30
Evening Event: Night Market, 17:30–19:30
Dinner: Street food at market
Stay: Hotel Indigo

Our return flight got canceled, and now we might have to leave San Diego a day early. Also, I just found out La Jolla Beach is closed due to high surf on Day 2 — that was our main plan for the day! I really don't want the changes to cost more than $100 extra — we already budgeted carefully.
